Sauroposeidon "Earthquake god lizard"

SAWR-uh-poe-SIE-don

Sauroposeidon was probably the tallest dinosaur. With a 56-foot-long neck, it was taller than nine men standing on each other's shoulders.

Iguanodon "Iguana tooth"

Ig-WAH-no-don

Iguanodon had funny looking hands with a thumb like a large spike, not useful for holding a paint brush.

Tyrannosaurus Rex "Tyrant lizard king"

Tie-RAN-o-SAWR-us rex

Not only did the T. Rex have short arms, it only had two fingers on each hand...not very useful for wrapping presents.

Argentinosaurus "Argentina lizard"

AR-jen-TEE-no-SAWRE-us

Argentinosaurus was probably the heaviest dinosaur of all. It weighed more than 1,500 people.

Ankylosaurus "Fused lizard"

Ank-EYE-low-SAWR-us

One of the widest dinosaurs, Ankylosaurus was built like an armoured tank.

Styracosaurus "Spiked lizard"

sty-RACK-oh-SAWR-us

With spiky horns all over Styracosaurus' head, birthday balloons wouldn't stand a chance.

Tanystropheus "Long strap"

tan-ee-STROH-fee-us

With a neck that was half of its entire body's length, scientists believe Tanystropheus was very good at snatching fish from the water.

A. Tanystropheus, B. Ankylosaurus, C. Sauroposeidon,
D. Iguanodon, E. Styracosaurus, F. Argentinosaurus,
G. Tyrannosaurus Rex
